

Emily Johnson

January 16, 2026

Acme Corporation

RE: Entry Level English Teacher

Dear Hiring Manager,

I am writing to express my enthusiasm for the Entry Level English Teacher position at Acme Corporation, as advertised on your careers page. With a passion for teaching and a strong background in English literature, I am excited about the opportunity to inspire students and foster their love for reading and writing.

During my time at university, I completed an internship at a local high school where I assisted in developing lesson plans and facilitating literature discussions in the classroom. This experience allowed me to implement interactive learning strategies that increased student engagement by 30%, as measured by participation and feedback surveys. Additionally, I led a creative writing workshop after school that encouraged students to express themselves through poetry and short stories. The workshop culminated in a publication featuring student work, which not only boosted their confidence but also helped to cultivate a supportive writing community.

I am particularly drawn to Acme Corporation's commitment to innovative teaching methods and personalized learning. I am eager to bring my skills in curriculum development and my ability to connect with students from diverse backgrounds to your team. I am confident that my fresh perspective and dedication to student success will make a positive impact on your educational environment.

I would welcome the opportunity to discuss how my background, skills, and enthusiasms align with the goals of Acme Corporation. Thank you for considering my application; I look forward to the possibility of contributing to your team.

Sincerely,

Emily Johnson