

Jordan Smith

January 16, 2026

Acme Corporation

RE: Internship Angular Developer

Dear Hiring Manager,

I am writing to express my enthusiasm for the Internship Angular Developer position at Acme Corporation, as advertised on your careers page. With a strong foundation in web development and a passion for building dynamic applications, I am excited about the opportunity to contribute to your team and further develop my skills in a real-world environment.

During my recent project at university, I successfully developed a responsive web application using Angular that allows users to manage their daily tasks efficiently. This project not only honed my front-end development skills but also taught me the importance of user experience design. By implementing Angular Material components, I was able to create a visually appealing interface that improved user engagement by 40%, as measured by user feedback and session duration. Additionally, I collaborated with a team of four students to integrate a RESTful API, which enhanced the functionality of our application by providing real-time data updates.

Furthermore, I completed a summer internship with a local tech startup, where I assisted in the migration of their existing web application to Angular. I played a key role in optimizing performance, reducing load times by 30%, and ensuring the application was mobile-friendly. This experience taught me how to work effectively in an agile environment and reinforced my ability to adapt to new technologies quickly. I am confident that my technical skills, along with my proactive attitude, would make me a valuable asset to Acme Corporation.

I am eager to bring my background in Angular development to your innovative team and would appreciate the opportunity to discuss my application further. Thank you for considering my application; I look forward to the possibility of contributing to Acme Corporation.

Sincerely,

Jordan Smith