

Emily Johnson-Smith

January 16, 2026

Acme Corporation

RE: Internship Biologist

Dear Hiring Manager,

I am writing to express my enthusiasm for the Internship Biologist position at Acme Corporation, as advertised on your careers page. With a strong background in biological sciences and hands-on research experience, I am eager to contribute to your team and support Acme's mission of advancing environmental sustainability through innovative biological solutions.

During my undergraduate studies at State University, I conducted a research project focused on the effects of climate change on local amphibian populations. By monitoring their behavior and habitat changes over a six-month period, I was able to identify key stressors that contributed to population decline. This project not only sharpened my analytical skills but also resulted in a published paper in the university's scientific journal, demonstrating my commitment to impactful research. Additionally, I interned at the City Wildlife Rehabilitation Center, where I assisted in the care of injured wildlife and participated in various outreach programs to educate the public about local biodiversity. My ability to communicate complex biological concepts to diverse audiences was instrumental in increasing community engagement by 30% during my internship.

I am excited about the opportunity to bring my research and field experience to Acme Corporation and collaborate with your talented team. I believe that my proactive approach and dedication to environmental conservation align well with your goals. I would welcome the chance to discuss how my background and skills can contribute to your projects. Thank you for considering my application; I look forward to the possibility of contributing to your innovative initiatives.

Sincerely,

Emily Johnson-Smith