Acme Corporation

RE: Internship Ironworker

Dear Hiring Manager,

I am writing to express my enthusiasm for the Internship Ironworker position at Acme Corporation, which I discovered through your company's careers page. As a dedicated student studying Construction Management at Springfield University, I am eager to apply my knowledge and skills in a practical environment, and I believe that my passion for structural integrity and safety aligns perfectly with your team's objectives.

During my academic career, I had the opportunity to participate in a hands-on project where we designed and built a scale model of a steel-framed structure. This experience not only strengthened my understanding of structural design principles but also honed my skills in interpreting blueprints and collaborating with classmates to meet project deadlines. I was proud to lead our team in achieving a remarkable 20% reduction in material costs through innovative design modifications, showcasing my ability to think critically and efficiently in a team setting.

In addition to my academic achievements, I completed a summer internship with ABC Construction, where I assisted experienced ironworkers in various tasks, including the installation of reinforced steel beams and the application of safety protocols on-site. My supervisor commended me for my strong work ethic and ability to quickly learn new techniques. This exposure to real-world ironworking solidified my desire to pursue a career in this field and equipped me with a practical understanding of the industry's demands.

I am very excited about the possibility of joining Acme Corporation's esteemed team and contributing to your projects with my skills and enthusiasm. I would welcome the opportunity to discuss how my background, skills, and eagerness to learn can be an asset to your organization. Thank you for considering my application.

Sincerely,

Michael Thompson
