

Dr. Emily Harper

January 16, 2026

Acme Corporation

RE: No Experience Cardiologist

Dear Hiring Manager,

I am writing to express my enthusiastic application for the No Experience Cardiologist position at Acme Corporation, which I discovered on your careers page. As a recent graduate from the Harvard Medical School with a focus on cardiology, I am eager to begin my professional journey in a dynamic and innovative environment like yours, where I can learn from experienced professionals while contributing to your team.

During my residency at Boston General Hospital, I had the opportunity to work alongside some of the leading cardiologists in the field. I assisted in managing a diverse patient population, which included performing diagnostic tests and interpreting the results under supervision. This hands-on experience allowed me to refine my clinical skills and develop a strong foundation in patient care. Additionally, I participated in a research project that focused on the effects of lifestyle changes on cardiovascular health, which not only enhanced my analytical skills but also taught me the importance of preventative care in cardiology. This research was presented at the American College of Cardiology Annual Scientific Session, showcasing my commitment to advancing knowledge in the field.

I am particularly drawn to Acme Corporation's commitment to patient-centered care and innovative treatment approaches. I believe that my academic background, combined with my passion for cardiology, aligns well with your team's mission. I would be thrilled to discuss how I can contribute to your department and grow as a cardiologist under your esteemed guidance. Thank you for considering my application. I look forward to the opportunity for further discussion.

Sincerely,

Dr. Emily Harper