

Jordan Taylor

January 16, 2026

Acme Corporation

RE: No Experience Release Engineer

Dear Hiring Manager,

Dear Hiring Manager,

I am writing to express my enthusiasm for the No Experience Release Engineer position at Acme Corporation, as advertised on your careers page. Having followed Acme's innovative approaches to software development, I am excited about the opportunity to contribute to your team's success with my strong technical background and a passion for continuous learning.

During my time at university, I actively participated in a variety of software development projects, which ignited my interest in release engineering. As a member of a capstone project team, I successfully led the integration of continuous integration/continuous deployment (CI/CD) tools that reduced our deployment time by 40%. This experience taught me the importance of efficient release processes and the role they play in ensuring software quality. Additionally, I collaborated with my peers to create a documentation framework that streamlined our build and deployment instructions, which was later adopted by other student teams, enhancing their workflow efficiency.

I am particularly drawn to this role at Acme Corporation because of your commitment to embracing cutting-edge technology and fostering a collaborative environment. I am eager to bring my problem-solving skills and technical knowledge to your team, while continuing to learn from experienced professionals within the organization. I look forward to the opportunity to discuss how my background, coupled with my dedication to mastering release engineering principles, can contribute to the success of Acme Corporation.

Thank you for considering my application. I am excited about the possibility of contributing to your team and would love to discuss my application in further detail.

Sincerely,

Jordan Taylor